2001 - 2002

"Insignia Regni"

The tears, the happiness, the triumphs, and the defeats, we all encountered these at one time or another. However, this year was full of various events that took over life as we knew it. Queens College has stood by one another through all of this year's changes : September 11th and it's aftermath, Dr. Wireman's Retirement, Dr. Lewis taking office, friendships, breakups, acceptance to sororities and fraternities, winning and losing those big games, and many trips down memory lane. Whatever it may be, we have united as Queens College and have been together through it all, side by side, hand in hand. College is a world of its own, new beginnings for freshmen, while they are starting all over; and seniors move on their way to a new beginning in the great unknown. No matter the circumstance, no matter our class in school, we all came together as a body of one and were united during this year, together. Over the year friendships were made and lost, relationships were established or broken, tears fell, smiles appeared, yet life continued. We were all in this one thing together, and that is life; therefore, we all were a part of an unbreakable band and started new beginnings, yet we will never forget that we have been through it all, together.

Tribute to Dr. Billy Overton Wireman

The much-loved Billy O. Wireman entered into this world on October 7, 1932, in Jackson, Kentucky. In 1954, he graduated from Georgetown College in Kentucky, having earned both a degree in history and a degree in physical education. Three years later, "Billy O." earned his masters degree in educational administration from the University of Kentucky. Then, in 1960, he received his doctorate from Peabody College of Vanderbilt University. The incredible Dr. Wireman has also been presented with honorary degrees from Eckerd College, The University of Tampa, and Georgetown College.

Aside from his educational endeavors and achievements, Dr. Wireman is also very patriotic. He served in the Marine Corps for our very own Stars and Stripes during the Korean War.

Later, "Billy O." served as a registered representative with a stock brokerage firm and helped run a family business in the state of Florida. In 1968, he became president of Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Florida, but in 1977 left to pursue a change of scenery and salary at the dean of the School of Finance and Business Administration at Rollins College in Winterpark, Florida.

So here's where our beloved college comes in...

In 1978, "Billy O." decided to take a chance and come to a tiny liberal arts college called Queens. Dr. Wireman accepted the position of President at this time. During his 24 year "reign" as the "King of Queens," the total enrollment at Queens (thanks to his work with the wonderful faculty and staff of the college) has increased a whopping three hundred percent, from the original 500 students, to 1700 in the year 2001. The endowment has reached a staggering $33 million. What's more, over the course of nearly a quarter of a century of service, new programs such as Hayworth College, The Vail Program of Nursing, The Core Program in Liberal Arts, the John Belk International Program, the shift to a coeducational status, the McColl School of Business, and the Learning Society of Queens have all bloomed and blossomed under his care, giving our college its prestigious reputation both in the community and beyond.

With the construction of the Sykes Learning Center, an endowment for school scholarships, and a new front entrance to the library, begun in 1999 and made possible by a donation from the generous John H. Sykes, Queens has exploded onto the national scene of educational opportunities and excellence. For the past five consecutive years, Queens has been ranked in the top ten for Best Value and soared to the top tier of Southern Regional Universities in the annual US News & World Report Survey.

Aside from his experience within our college, Dr. Wireman has also worked tirelessly to promote education on a worldwide scale. "Billy O." has served as an educational consultant in India, Africa, South America, and Indonesia. He has visited South Korea, China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and the Philippines to meet with both educators and government officials. He has gone to Russia and helped guide tours in Europe and the Far East.

Dr. Wireman is a true treasure to our community, publishing over 300 hundred articles on education, politics, religion, and international topics in Europe and Asia. Our own Drs. Goode and Whalen have co-authored three books with Dr. Wireman. A fourth book, entitled Like Shooting Rapids in the Dark, was edited by these two professors, and released in 2002 with book being written entirely by Wireman himself.

Finally, in addition to his many philanthropic, educational, and literary endeavors, Wireman is also married to the equally talented (but much prettier) former Katie Marie Coomer (BA Georgetown '57, MA Peabody '61). They have two grown children. On June 30, 2002, our great president retired. Before he left, though, he made it a priority to push Queens to formally recognize its university status. On June 1, 2002, Queens College became Queens University.

On top of all this, on April 26, 2002, Patrick McCrory (Mayor of Charlotte) declared the day "Billy O. Wireman Day" in recognition of our wonderful outgoing president's outstanding lifetime achievements in his community.

To be sure, in the years to come students who knew Dr. Wireman will celebrate the memory of his leadership and service, and remember the incredible Billy O. Wireman on this day. We'll miss you, "Billy O. and Katie.!" Come back and see us anytime!

Dr. Pamela Lewis

President - Elect

Dr. Pamela Lewis is President-elect at Queens College and former Dean of the McColl School of Business. Throughout her career, Dr. Lewis has distinguished herself through her commitment to providing innovative and high quality business education. Her particular focus has been on forging industry and academic partnerships that enhance the relevance and applicability of academic programs.

Dr. Lewis' professional specialization is in the field of strategic planning, with particular emphasis on competitive and marketing strategy. She has written numerous articles in the areas of strategic planning, international strategy and entrepreneurship/new venture strategy. She is the lead author of the book, Management: Challenges for the 21st Century, which is currently in its third edition and has been adopted at over 200 universities across the United States. Dr. Lewis also has been active in executive education and consulting, serving as a strategic planning consultant for numerous organizations across a wide variety of industries.

Dr. Lewis received her bachelor's degree from the University of Florida, her master's degree from Southwest Missouri State University and her Ph.D. in strategic planning and international business from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Lewis serves on the Board of Directors of several public companies: C&D Technologies, Inc., a leading manufacturing firm; Charming Shoppes, a retail apparel firm; and Nobel Learning Communities, an education company operating K-12 schools across the country. She currently serves on the local boards of the Central Carolinas United Way, the Financial Services Exchange, and WFAE. She has also served as co-chair of the American Heart Association Heart Walk and on the campaign cabinet of the Arts & Science Council.

REAL WORLD
CHARLOTTE

Queens College Orientation 2001

Welcome to the Real World Freshmen!

The year 2001's orientation for freshmen was filled with tons of fun activities. Ice-breaker games and group discussions of what to expect as a freshman in college were a major focus of this year's orientation. The PROs for the year 2001 really helped the new students feel at home, and gave them some upperclassmen friends to come to if they needed anything at all. By the end of orientation, each new student almost definitely felt integrated into the Queens College Family!

Residence Life

Albright

Albright is a coed dorm that houses incoming Freshmen.

Barnhardt

Barnhardt houses both male and female, incoming International students.

Belk

Though Belk was not a primary dorm this year, it housed special students to Queens College. It also housed other Queens College students.

Hayes

Hayes is primarily an upperclassmen dorm. However, transfer students are also housed in this dorm.

South

South is a brand new dorm this school year! Its Ethernet, kitchens, and personal bathrooms were a huge plus to its upperclassmen residents.

Wallace

This all female dorm is accompanied with the campus Coffee House on the first floor. Wallace houses all incoming freshman females.

Outdoor Adventure & Connection Charlotte

Have you ever just wanted to jump out of a plane from two hundred feet in the air? Well, in Outdoor Adventure, you can do just that! Connection Charlotte also allows students to do many incredible and amusing things. These crazy, fun, and exciting groups of individuals really put the spice into life. Nothing was ever boring in these organizations!

QC Fitness Center

Queens College Fitness Center is open to all students on campus, as well as members of the community. The Fitness Center offers many classes for the students and members to participate in, as well as provides equipment for the independent individuals who choose to work out using weights or other machines.

The Fitness Center is located in the basement of South Dorm. South dorm was built and opened for the Fall 2001 semester, so, the Fitness Center is brand new to the campus as well.

Queens College's coffee house, Common Grounds, is located on the first floor of Wallace Residence Hall, but it's really a world of its own. It is a social gathering place for many students late at night. The Coffee House is full of furry lamps, fluffy couches and chairs, unique artwork, pillows, and its signature purple and gold walls. Common Grounds' distinctive look is unique to the Queens College community.

Coffee House

Discovery Days

Discovery Day is an annual Queens College event that takes place during the fall of every year. Students from Myers Park Elementary join Queens' students in a day full of fun activities. Some of the activities the elementary students participate in include swimming, face-painting, tennis lessons, and other outdoor games. Myers Park students have said they look forward to their "college" experience every year!

Midnight Madness

Queens College students and athletes always look forward to this fun night! Midnight Madness is a late-evening event which announces to the student body the athletes for various sports. This year Greek Life participated in an obstacle course and other students tested their skills in a slam-dunk contest. The games begin!

Each year Sodexo-Marriot sponsors theme-related events for the Queens College Community. This year they chose to do Oktober Fest, with a German theme. Fine German cuisine was served, along with O'douls and root beer. The festivities also included a live band playing German tunes.

Oktober Fest

Religious Life

Religious life here on the Queens College campus is very active. The groups of individuals who participate in this social arena of the school are very giving and caring people, who like the rest of the QC community, want to contribute their time and energy into making a difference in the world. This year, the group took a mission trip to Guatemala and did hands-on work there in order to promote healthy living and Christian ideals. Religious life here on campus is alive and well, as shown from the metro meetings and students who regularly attend chapel services.

Vital Speeches of the Day Publishes Speech by

Dr. Frances McClain

Vital Speeches of the Day published Music Therapy Professor Dr. Frances McClain's fall convocation speech in the November 1, 2001, issue.

Dr. Frances McClain, Livingstone Professor of Music, gave her speech, titled The Music in Your Soul: A Celebration of Life at the 2001 Fall Convocation at Queens College.

Every year, the winner of the Hunter-Hamilton Love of Teaching Award receives the honor of delivering the keynote address for Fall Convocation. McClain was awarded the 2001 Hunter-Hamilton Love of Teaching Award at the 142nd commencement convocation on Saturday, May 5, 2001.

The Hunter-Hamilton Love of Teaching Award seeks out and honors teachers whose way of life uniquely inspires the full potential of each student. This award is given to a Queens College faculty member judged by his or her peers to display an exemplary love of teaching.

A board certified music therapist, McClain has been a faculty member at Queens College since 1983. In addition to her responsibilities as a music therapy professor, she also directs the on-campus music therapy clinic and acts as advisor to the music therapy club and music therapy majors. Prior to joining the Queens faculty, McClain worked for Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools as a music therapist for the trainable mentally retarded. She holds a Ph.D. in psycho-educational processes and music therapy from Temple University. McClain is the past recipient of the Joseph W. Grier, Jr. Distinguished Professor Award at Queens.

Two honorary degrees awarded at Queens CAS Spring Convocation

Charlotte, N.C., January 29, 2002 – Queens College awarded two honorary degrees at its College of Arts and Sciences Spring Convocation, on Tuesday, January 29, 2002, in the Belk Chapel on the Queens campus.

The late renowned musician Loonis McGlohon, and Charlotte attorney and Queens trustee Joseph W. Grier, Jr., each received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Queens College. McGlohon's degree was accepted on behalf of his family by Queens College alumnus Jim Stack, one of McGlohon's musical colleagues.

A native of North Carolina, McGlohon was a well-known jazz pianist and composer. He held a business degree from East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C., where he also studied music. In the course of his career, McGlohon recorded 36 albums and worked with a variety of artists such as Rosemary Clooney, Tony Bennett and Benny Goodman. A Grammy nominee, he is probably best remembered for his song North Carolina is My Home, which he wrote with the journalist Charles Kuralt. In September 2001, McGlohon celebrated his 80th birthday by performing with the McGlohon trio at the theater that bears his name at Spirit Square in uptown Charlotte. McGlohon died on Saturday, January 26, 2002, after a nine-year battle with lymphoma.

In 1983, a trustee of the College that was serving on the Honorary Degree Committee of the Board of Trustees suggested that Joseph W. Grier, Jr., should receive an honorary degree. Grier declined, stating that because he was also on the Honorary Degree Committee and intended to remain very active as a trustee, he could not accept the nomination. Nineteen years later, though he is still a trustee, Grier will receive an honorary degree from the College to thank him for his service as an active trustee and valued member of the Queens community. Grier is Chairman Emeritus of the Board of Trustees at Queens and founded the law firm Grier and Grier (now Grier & Furr, P.A.) with his son, Joseph Grier, III, in 1984.

In addition to the honorary degrees, Queens also awarded two J.B. Fuqua Distinguished Educator Awards, to professors Cherie Clark and Karen Shearer. These awards are presented to faculty members who are selected by the two most recent graduating classes at Queens, from the McColl School of Business, the Graduate School, the Pauline Lewis Hayworth College and the College of Arts and Sciences. The J.B. Fuqua Foundation, based in Atlanta, has selected Queens College as one of a number of elite colleges which recognizes outstanding professors through an awards program funded by the Fuqua Foundation.

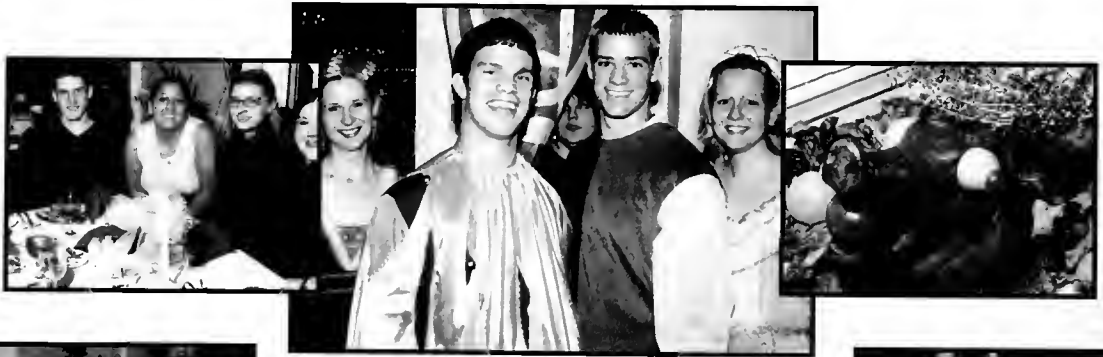

Dr. Charles Reed, William S. Lee Professor of History and the 2000 N.C. Professor of the Year, delivered the convocation address "Reading as if for Life," published in the November 15, 2001, edition of Vital Speeches of the Day.

Queens College is a private, coed, Presbyterian-affiliated liberal arts college in the heart of historic Charlotte serving approximately 1,700 undergraduate and graduate students through its College of Arts and Sciences, The Pauline Lewis Hayworth College and McColl School of Business.

Boar's Head

Winter traditions are a huge part of life at Queens College. Each year, students, faculty, staff, alumnae, and friends of the college gather together at a holiday celebration known as Boar's Head. An ancient legend of a scholar who kills a wild boar with the book he is studying in the forest by ramming the book down the boar's throat is the quirky basis for the tradition of a Boar's Head dinner.

However (luckily), that is not what goes on at the Queens' dinner. Singing, dancing, holiday cheer, and general merry-making provided by selected students as well as the Queens College Chamber Singers make this tradition truly exciting. The festivities come to a close with the presentation and lighting of the holiday yule fog on the Quad.

Moravian Love Feast

December certainly is a fun-filled month at Queens! Another tradition held each year during the holiday season is known as the Moravian Love Feast. This chapel service is packed with song and jubilation for the Queens College community. Although it is a Queens College function, residents from the surrounding Myers Park Area, their children, family members of students, and anyone else wishing to join in the festivities are always welcome at Queens. Coffee and the famous rolls known as "love buns" are served to the guests by the women of Kappa Delta sorority and enjoyed by all attending. Group and solo performances were given by the Queens College Chorus, directed by Dr. Glenn. A harpist was also present as a special treat to listen to for those in attendance. The night was concluded on Burwell lawn with the lighting of the campus Christmas tree by Dr. Wireman, and the singing of holiday carols by all those who could brave the cold!

Exam Break Breakfast

Queens College

During student's junior and senior years, they are invited to purchase an official Queens College ring. Each student who participates receives his or her ring from Dr. Wireman, at a reception for the students and their special guests.

Casino Night

Beautiful women, handsome men, all dressed up and ready to gamble! What more could one ask for? Each year the students at Queens College attend a semi-formal dance to celebrate enjoying college life. The students earned "Billy O. Bucks" through their gambling pursuits, and could gain a chance to win such cool prizes as a hundred dollar gift certificate to a local mall. This year's Casino Night was a huge success and every one seemed to be having a lot of fun, especially on the dance floor!

Queens College 2001-2002 Spring Carnival was a blast! Students gathered from four til seven on Friday afternoon to enjoy various activities. Phi Mu sponsored a Pie-Throwing Contest. The sorority had a change-war all week and students put money in for the professor or staff member they wanted to see hit in the face with a pie. Nick Cheek, Kent Rhodes, Dan Calhoun, Lynn Morton, and Andrea McCrary were the ones the students chose. Other various clubs participated; CEOPS sponsored a t-shirt tie-dye table, Chi-Omega sold paper flowers to benefit the Red Cross. SGA, Yearbook, and others also set up tables for activities and sales. There were also various carnival-style activities such as an inflatable rock climbing course, laser tag, bungee bull, and an obstacle course. Students were provided with music, and fun in the sun.

Baccalaurate

The end was near! Each year, just days before graduation, the seniors and faculty as well as any other student who wishes to attend gather together for a prayer service in Belk Chapel. This gathering is designed to put the seniors at ease about their oncoming journey into the career world. In 2002, a performance was made by the chorale and was thoroughly enjoyed by all in attendance. The seniors, it is hoped, were left feeling calm and peaceful about leaving Queens.

Graduation

How could it rain on such a grandiose and important occasion? But sure enough, the heavens opened up and poured down on Charlotte on the day of Graduation 2002. Thousands of chairs set up for the event on Burwell Lawn were left vacant and soaked. Graduation then moved to Dana Auditorium, and some relatives were forced to watch the graduation from seats in the lobby on a mini movie screen. This year hit a sad note—after 24 years of service to Queens, Billy G. presided over his last graduation in the year 2002. Overall, though, Graduation was a joyous occasion for the seniors and their families. Too bad the weather didn't cooperate!

Alpha Delta Pi

As the first secret society in the world for women, ADPi was originally the Adelphean Society, which was founded at Wesleyan Female College in 1951. The sorority holds it standards high with its official colors as Azure Blue and White. Blue is symbolic of friendship and white symbolizes both sincerity and truth. The open motto is "We live for each other" as these QC sisters do by lending their helping hands to their philanthropy, The Ronald McDonald House. The Alpha Delta Pi's had an excellent year, nearly doubling house total, and looks forward to the many adventures their sisterhood has in store.

Are you sure this isn't hazing...

Chi Omega New Member Retreat tradition is to perform a skit for the older sisters...look at that hair fly!

In the beginning...

Founded on the Queens College campus in February of 1928, Chi Omega is the largest national women's fraternity. The Theta Gamma Chapter of Chi Omega consists of over 50 sisters and very active alumni. The Chi O's have had a very successful year with reaching house total every year for the past four years and receiving the honor of Greek House of the year for the past two years.

Some interesting Chi Omega facts are the Gazebo in front of the Chapel was originally in front of the library and was donated by the Chi O's. Also the very first Chi Omega lodge was where the clock tower now stands and the original shutters from the first house are now on display inside the current lodge on Greek Row. Their mascot is the owl and the colors are red and yellow. Way to go girls for a great year!

Kappa Delta Sorority

History

Kappa Delta Sorority was founded on October 23, 1897 in Farmville, Va. Alpha Omicron Chapter was founded in 1928. Kappa Delta supports four National Philanthropies, Prevent Child Abuse America, Orthopedic Research Award, Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va, and Girl Scouts Of America. Proceeds from KD's annual Shamrock Golf Tournament go to the Juvenile Diabetes Association of Charlotte as well as Prevent Child Abuse American.

Alpha Psi Omega

In the dark depths of the spooky Suzanne Little Recital Hall it has been quite a whimsical year for the Alpha Beta Delta Cast of Alpha Psi Omega. Each year the QC Drama Department puts on a wide variety of new plays, which are performed for not only the QC community, but also the general public. This past year has been one of the largest for Alpha Psi and the drama department. With captain Jane Hadley at their sides these Thespians have truly shown strutted their stuff for QC. Some productions include CLUE: The Musical, The Final Note, Deep Sleepers, and Thicker Than Water, Faith County. The groups hope is to be performing in the new black box theater by 2003 honoring Charles and Jane Hadley for their hard work at Queens since their arrival.

>Wahoo a musical!

Was it Professor Plum, with the candlestick in the ballroom? The first show of the year CLUE: The Musical was directed by Jane Hadley and choreographed by senior Jill Brumer. It was the first musical in Suzanne Little in a long time...the ghosts approved.

vSenior projects:

Directed by Cheryl Simmons, Thicker Than Water was an original and bitter-sweet family drama about life and love.

v Take A Bow

Resident Assistants

It's a job that requires a little bit of everything. It means that you have to be able to juggle your time even when you have the biggest paper of your life due the next day. It means playing games in the hallways because the RA is locked out of her room. It's about helping a student find out there is more to life than just a dorm room. It's about creating an environment that you are proud to be a part of. It's a staff that will help you out at the last minute because your whole life just changed.

It's about a second family. What job could possibly hold all of these qualities and much more. It's called being an RA.

Signet

Entering into the Literary World

Signet is the literary publication of Queens College that pops up on coffee house tables every Spring. Signet seeks to display creative writing, art, and photography talent sometimes unknowingly held by those who must be somewhat harassed to submit their masterpieces. Although it can be disputed whether or not the editor actually resembles King Arthur, members discuss submissions in a round table kind of fashion.

Leadership Program

There are various ways to becoming involved in the leadership programs that Queens offers. Students apply to the leadership program during their freshman year and are encouraged to stay actively involved during their entire college experience. During the year a Leadership Conference and a Leadership Mountain Retreat are part of the fun of being involved in the program. Many other leadership activities are scheduled throughout the year.

(Campus Environmental Outreach Program)

The CEOP's are an actively involved club on the Queens College campus. Along with their advisor Dr. Jan, this club performs various environmental activities on and off campus. They are affiliated with the Student Environmental Action Coalition in that they are provided with a range of opportunities at both state and national levels. Their projects include: bringing in environmental speakers, celebrating environmental festivals such as Earth Day, and informing the student body of current local, national, and international environmental problems. They also efficiently involve their members within the community by managing the flow of recyclable materials.

With a disappointing season this year the Men's Basketball team is looking forward to next season. "[This season] we did not reach our goals because the team was new and we still were not used to each other yet", said James Winford. The team was made up of three freshmen, eight sophomores, five juniors and, two seniors. Although the team was new some players felt that it was a good lineup. Chris Benson felt that the combination helped rather than hindered. "A mixture of youth and experience together was a key element that played a role in the team being successful this year."

Although the team didn't make it to the CVAC Finals spirits were still high. Chris Benson stated that "As a team we are a family" Like any team the coach is also a key player in the game. "Coach loves to win. He is not a loser. The team is motivational and inspirational. Everybody has each other's back," said junior James Winford. The players still perform rituals before every game. "We jump around and scream in the locker room with the lights flickering on and off" said James Winford. These pre-game superstitions are used in order to "hype" up the players. Team members all seem to agree that the most memorable game this season was the January away game at Belmont Abby where the Royals took the win with a score of 83-78.

Watch out! As junior, James Winthrop, drives toward net he takes out his opponent from Winthrop University.

In Like A Lamb-Out Like A Lion

A rocky start smooths out and clears a path for a successful season

Even though the QC women had a rough start, it all worked out in the end as they finished up their 2002 season with an overall record of 17-10. The Lady Royals never disappointed the crowd—their excellent free throws and amazing three-pointers always got the fans to their feet. The Lady Royals are the real deal, and with rising players who are hungry for victory, the team will certainly never disappoint in the years to come.

No one ever said it was easy... But the Royals certainly made it look that way! One of the most physically demanding sports, cross-country, seemed to be an art form to the QC teams. As their season went on, the times only got better; their form became almost impeccable. The Cross Country team made the college proud!

We Are The Champions!

Royals sweep the CVAC and end the season on top of the world

Hard-core slide tackles, amazing headers, man-to-man/woman-to-woman action for a chance at making that seemingly impossible shot...In what other sport can one get this kind of action? In none other than the game called soccer here in the United States, but known to the rest of the world as "football." And our footballin' men and women here at Queens had it down to a well-tuned science. Both teams proved a real threat to the other teams of the division, taking on and devouring basically every team they were matched against. The men won every game in the quarterfinals, semifinals, and finals, the Queens College Men's soccer team was a force to be reckoned with. Neither men's and women's teams took the national title, but they proved that Queens soccer is no joke. To be sure, the other teams in the league will be shaking in their soccer boots when they have to go to war with the Royals again next season.

Hit 'em up!

> Swingin'

Matt Hutton, a sophomore, reaches back to take a vollee at the next ball. The men's tennis team has strong potential for the next tennis season.

> Hit it hard!

Nate Mann follows through his swing after hitting the tennis ball. Mann commented, "We have improved. This was a seson for rebuilding."

They made sure their back swings were powerful; they worked on lobbing the ball the right area of the court. Tennis season, both teams, however, was a tough one. Competition was fierce, but neither team e disappointed the college. With rising stars both teams, the seasons ahead were sure to exciting ones.

Senior Activities

Queens College Seniors are involved all over campus. They are the writers, directors, cast, and crew of many plays, presidents of our sororities, fraternities and other campus organizations. They are also active members of various clubs. Quite simply they are truly the leaders on our campus. Their roles and traditions will carry on at Queens College. They will be greatly missed in the years to come.

I'll Always Remember...

Queens College is a place to achieve a well-rounded education, a place to make friends that will last a lifetime, and a place to make memories that will be cherished for years to come. These are all values that the graduating Seniors have learned during their time spent here. The Queens festivities at Christmas time, Casino Night, sorority and fraternity functions, a coffee house for students to hang out, and professors who really care, have all left a lasting impression on our seniors. When asked what they will miss the most about Queens, several answers kept popping up. The close-knit community, the dorm life, late night pizza, being surrounded by friends all the time, the great summers they spent in foreign countries with the IEP Program and the sporadic road trips, all made the list several times. Most Seniors believe that the memories made at Queens will be with them for the rest of their lives.

Life After Graduation

Amanda Stefanski, Kristen Kelly, Kristi Wheatley, Emily Case, and Megan Guest wear their caps and gowns, and pose under the gazebo located in front of Belk Chapel. All of these girls are in Chi Omega Sorority. The gazebo was given by the sorority years ago.

As the last notes of Pomp and Circumstance fade into the spring air, the anticipation and perhaps even the fear of what is to come washes over our newly graduated seniors. It's a little unfair on this pivotal day, that any other emotion but sheer joy should be felt, nevertheless, reality begins to set in. So what will our seniors do now that they've got their diploma? Several of our seniors are taking advantage of Queens International Experience Program and are traveling abroad. Others look to the job market and begin to plan out their career path.

Still others are finishing up their internships at various locations, ready to step into the jobs opened up by their interning experience. Some of our seniors are going home to just relax after a strenuous four years of academic life and to get a much deserved breather before jumping into "the real world." No matter what path our graduating class may take, the experiences, organizations, friends, and most importantly, the education they have been a part of at Queens will continue to guide them and will always be there to offer a smile or two.

Faculty and Staff -
Thank you for all you do!

Faculty and Staff

The Queens College faculty and staff are made up of a group of very intelligent, unique individuals. They are committed to making Queens' a better college and devoted to helping the students. They are always there, with open arms, whenever a student may need them. The professors around campus are always willing to provide students with extra help or just chat with them about classes. The Queens College community feels that they would have no less and sincerely enjoy being able to associate so closely with the faculty and staff.

v Caught in the act!
Kevin Butler, Assistant Director of Academic Affairs for Hayworth College works diligently to complete the tasks at hand.

^ Bringin' em home!

Admissions Counselors Weston Nickerson, Lacy Gapczynski, and David Geyer discuss advertising for new students with graphic designer, Kimber Flynn.

> Ready, set, register!

Jennifer Melton of the registrar's office takes time out from her busy day of registering students for new classes to smile for the camera.

v Workin' hard!

n Raney of the registrar's office takes a break and laughs at her colleague's joke.

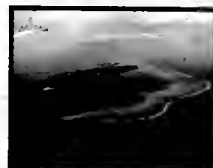

^ Show me the money!

Financial aid consultants take a break to relax and chat before getting back to work.

^ Say cheese!

Director of Hayworth College admissions, Margaret Larrea smiles as she chats to a prospective student.

Yap Tour

Students on the IEP trip known as Yap worked closely with the native people in order to teach them modern methods of living. Students who wanted to participate in this IEP had to be chosen through an interview process and be able to work in groups effectively with others. On top of all this, however, the Yap trip was also fun! On an island in Micronesia, the tropical sunshine and climate made all the work seem like only a walk in the park when it came time to relax—it was all worth it when you could cool off in the shower of waterfalls and the crystal-blue ocean!

Tibet & China Tour

Learning Chinese is no easy task, as the student who went on this trip soon found out! In the calm before the actual trip, the task of learning a completely foreign language—which doesn't even use the same alphabet as English—proved very challenging. But all of the hard work paid off when these students reached their destination and saw the different world known as China. The ancient culture astounded and amazed the people who journeyed there!

Celtic Tour

The Celtic Tour is a conglomeration of the different Irish and Scottish regions of Europe. This tour is rich in folklore of ancient cultures and is also a beautiful landscape in which the students marveled at the beauty of Ireland and Scotland. This trip was a lot of fun for those who journeyed there, and was educational as well!

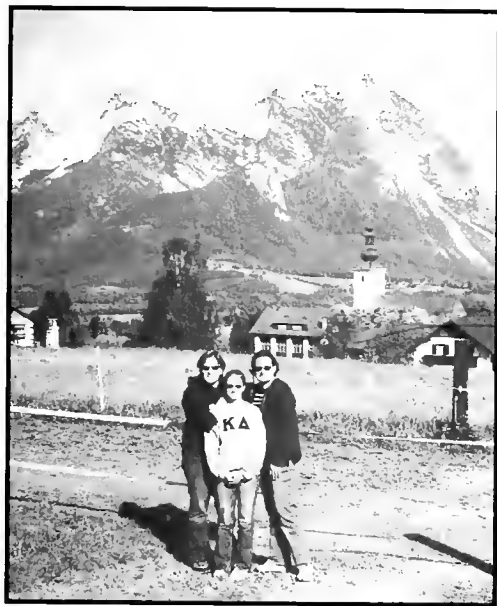

All photographs taken by Vanessa Intanzone

Grand Tour

The Grand Tour of Great Cities was an adventure in will we never forget. We visited six countries in twenty-four days, using five languages, with four faculty members, three different currencies, two members of the Wireman family, and one experience of a lifetime

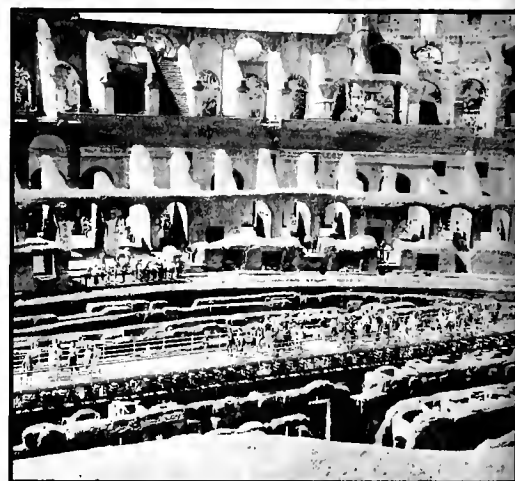

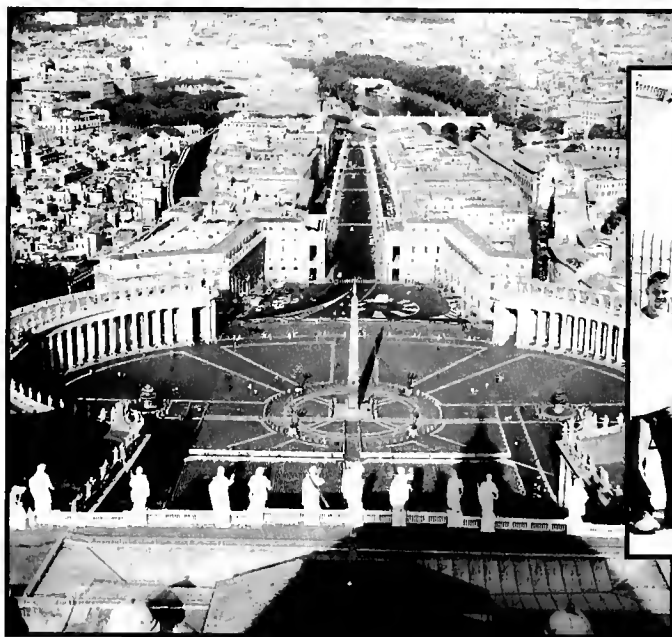

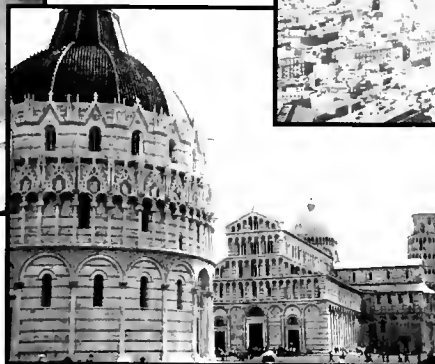

Italy Tour

Bonjourno! Students on the trip to Italy thoroughly enjoyed the scenery—and the food! Italy is an ancient country with many different customs and rich food to bolster one's appetite. The students on the trip to Italy took tours of the country and even saw famous artwork and architecture every where they turned. Everyone had a wonderful time during the trip, but some wouldn't miss the heavily buttered and fatty foods. Liz Cozad said, "I never want to see another pizza or bowl of spaghetti for as long as I live!"

Yearbook

"It has been quite an experience and responsibility by starting a yearbook and getting a staff together.

Although things have been difficult at times, it has been fun."

~Rachel Oliver
Editor-In-Chief

"Being on this yearbook staff has been a great experience. Especially being a freshman, I have learned a lot about leadership and responsibility."

~Nicole Dasnoit
Assistant Editor

The yearbook staff at Queens College is composed of students, one student advisor, one faculty advisor, and one staff advisor. The 2001-2002 yearbook is the first for the Queens' community since 1996. Freshman Rachel Oliver began working with Christopher Ammon during the summer of 2001 and decided to start a staff and begin working on the book for the 2001-2002 year.

The name Insignia Regni is Latin for insignia of royalty and was chosen in place of the previous name, Arete, because it identifies the mascot, school name, and the legacy of the Queens' community. The theme for the book was chosen because of the various experiences we have all been through together over the past year. The staff was divided in six sections depending on their knowledge and past dedication to a yearbook staff. Although the staff had only three months to complete this book, they were very happy with their accomplishments.

THANK

Thanks to all of the Queens College faculty and staff for all your help, dedication and commitment to student-run organizations.

Students -

Thank you for taking the first opportunity in six years to help us create a yearbook!

Kelly Shealy- (Jostens Representative)

Thank you for the many trips to campus and helping us through everything! You've been amazing!

Hank Whitaker- (Jostens Designer)

Thank you for helping us with creating the book cover! It's awesome!

A special thanks to Dr. Charles Reed for his help creating a new name for the book.

Christopher Ammon, Stephen Baldwin, and the SGA members - sorry for the messes in the office! Thanks for working with us.

Jennifer Wu and Eric Baldwin - Thanks for the support and help you provided when we needed it most!

Keith and Kimber -

Thanks for all your help getting us pictures.

Campus Police-

Thanks for the many midnight calls to unlock Jernigan!

YOU!!

Yearbookers:

Thank you for all your hard work and dedication! It's been a rough three months to create a book, but it could not have been done without you! A special thanks to those who stuck through til the end - your commitment is greatly appreciated!

Kathy Gardner (Copy Editor) -

"Are you kidding me?" Heard all too many times in the wee morning hours before deadlines! Thank you for being a wonderful editor and helper when you were needed at the last minute!

To the Section Editors -

Thanks for your creativity and organization!

Brittney (Sports Section Editor) -

Depite the hardships of losing a staff, your commitment amazed us all! Thanks for always listening and staying dedicated!

Kelly and Leah (Photographers)-

It could not have been done without you!

Nicole (Assistant Editor) -

Thanks for always being there for anyone who needed you - any phone calls? You were great and had amazing dedication to stick it out - Thanks!

Thank you from the Yearbook staff!

College life is like no other.

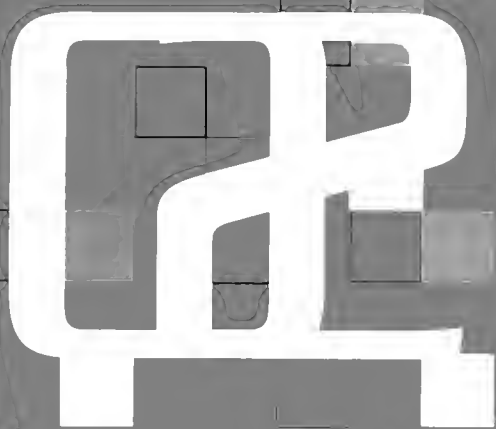

We never experience adventure, pain, loneliness, excitement, anger, or love like we do during our college days. The best part about it is we get to share these experiences with our friends and loved ones. This year has brought many changes to the Queens College community. The campus stood side by side when Dr. Billy O. Wireman announced his retirement after his twenty-four year reign. So as we all watched, Dr. Pamela Lewis was acknowledged at President-Elect... With the school year coming to a close we all learned that long honored name, Queens College, was to be replaced with Queens University of Charlotte... Remember waking up that bright morning of September and soon beginning to realize that it was actually one of the darkest days in history? Yet, once again, there we were, hoping to comfort the ailing and to ask for healing of the pain ... Then came the day of awaiting that letter of acceptance - to grad school, to an internship, to a sorority or fraternity house... yet, we were continually surrounded by one another ... The smiles... The tears... The ups and downs... we were there and never let each other go ... That day finally came when that seemingly impossible game was beginning - who would have guessed we would have scored the winning point? The team was always there to offer congratulations and support ... Then there was that rooming situation, but what would you have done without the room mate who became your confidant and best friend?

We may have packed up to start a new life or may have just gone back to "home" for the summer, but we gained a lot during the year together. Whatever the situation may have been, good or bad, this year has been full of experience and change, yet no matter what we can always look back and say we have been...

together
through it all.
